

Colorado River Management Plan Adjacent Lands

Concerns

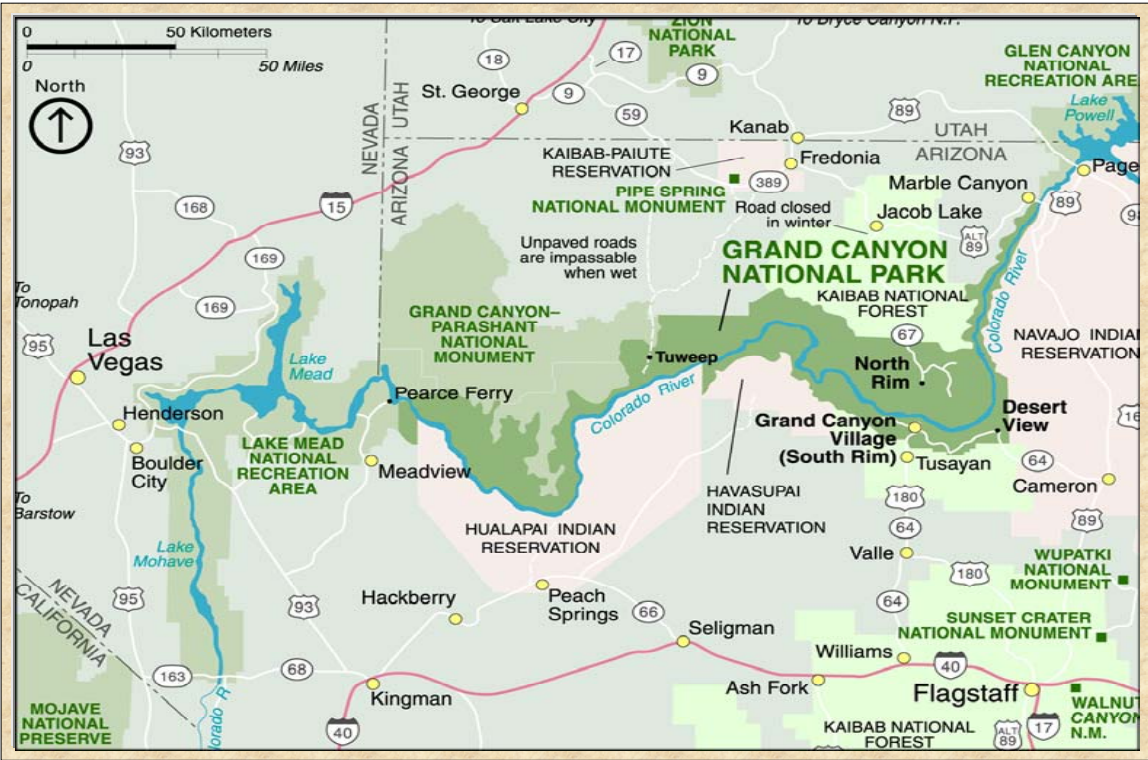

- Access/Egress
- User Interactions
- Varying Land Management Practices
- Overlapping Jurisdictions
- Regional Economies

Fast Facts

- 108 miles of the Colorado River are adjacent to the Hualapai Reservation
- 61 miles of the Colorado River are adjacent to the Navajo Nation
- The Havasupai Reservation borders both Grand Canyon National Park and the Hualapai Indian Reservation
- Over 10,000 river users a year use Whitmore helicopter exchange
- As many as 80 people a day can launch with Hualapai River Runners from Diamond Creek
- As many as 150 people a day can be on outfitter boats below Diamond Creek
- More than 300 people a day take Hualapai helicopter tours from Grand Canyon West to the Quartermaster area

Lake Mead NRA

East Rim from Forest Service Trail

Havasu Creek

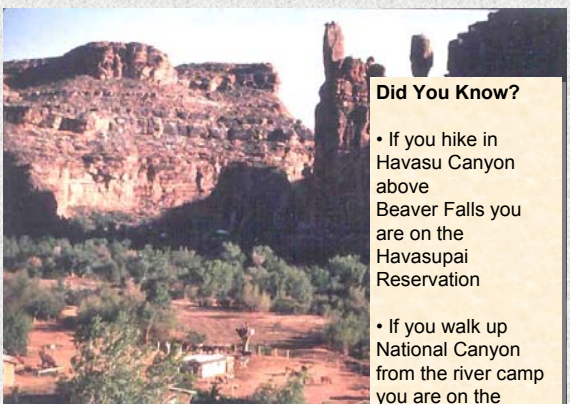

Diamond Peak

Marble Canyon

Glen Canyon NRA

Did You Know?

- If you hike in Havasu Canyon above Beaver Falls you are on the Havasupai Reservation
- If you walk up National Canyon from the river camp you are on the Hualapai Reservation
- If you hike up the Little Colorado River 0.25 miles you are on the Navajo Nation
- Varying lake levels can have a dramatic affect on river navigability in the lower gorge and can alter river take-out locations

